Waveland mayor pursues reef to replace deep hole

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Mayor John Longo of Waveland is seeking to create an artificial fishing reef offshore from Buccaneer State Park to eliminate the 'deep hole' which claimed its 25th victim recently.

The hole was apparently created in 1966 during U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' dredging operations to form the sand beach in Waveland and Bay St. Louis.

A mud bottom was added to the hole in 1979 when spoils from nearby Bayou Cadet dredging operation were dumped in an attempt to fill the cavity, apparently making the hole more dangerous than it was previously.

The deadly hole is located some 1,500 feet offshore.

Longo Friday said he contacted a representative of the Corps' Mobile District Office Thursday to propose sinking barges to fill the hole, to stop drownings and create a fishing reef.

The mayor has also written a letter requesting assistance of Gov. William Winter with copies sent to Mississippi Senators Thad Cochran and John Stennis, U.S. Representative Trent Lott, and Hancock County Rep. J.P. Compretta, State Senator Martin Smith and Board of Supervisors President A.A. (Dolph) Keller.

A copy of Longo's letter appears on The Sea Coast Echo's Editorial Page today.

Hancock District Four Supervisor Sam Perniciaro Thursday reported he can secure as many tires as are necessary to fill the hole.

Longo said he felt by using both the tires and barges the deep hole problem could be solved.

"I think it's a fine idea. Maybe Perniciaro and I can get together and do something about this problem," he noted.

"In view of the number of deaths we've had in this area and the bad publicity we've received I felt it was time for something to be done," he stated.

"We feel it's a reflection that local officials don't care," the mayor stated.

"If we notify our congressmen maybe some federal recreation money might be available," he reported.

"We need to make these state officials aware of this problem so we're not constantly being criticized here," Longo said.

"Possibly we haven't pursued the proper channels," he added.

Longo said the city could not afford a year-round patrol of the area which he felt would be necessary unless the hole

Hancock Youth Court adds two counselors

BRENDA BAILEY
ELSON CODY

Michael D. Haas, Hancock County Youth Court Referee reports addition of Brenda Bailey and Elson Cody to the court staff as youth Youth Court counselors.

Bailey, who previously worked for the Department of Youth Services in DeSoto County, holds a master of education degree in guidance and counseling from Delta State University in Cleveland.

She has worked for Washington County Youth Court where she originated and coordinated a volunteer program.

"Ms. Bailey is going to use her expertise in this area to head a Volunteer in Court program for our court and is looking for volunteers to participate in one-to-one programs (one volunteer assigned to one child), special people to tutor children, women to minister to the needs of those children in detention facilities, senior citizens to serve as a valuable resource for our young people, to name just a few of her proposals," Haas said.

Bailey would also like to develop a Community-Watch Program to provide a cooperative security system for house watching as a deterrent to burglaries of dwellings, the judge added.

Another needed service she is hoping to implement is the establishment of a drug and alcohol prevention and education program.

Anyone interested in volunteering time and energy should contact Ms. Bailey at 467-7945.

Elson Cody has transferred to the Youth Court from Adams County where he has served as youth service counselor for the past five years.

Cody is a graduate from Delta University with a BA in political science and graduate work in history. He will serve as an intake officer in an effort to screen those children who may profit from an unofficial status and follow-up counseling rather than being dealt with officially.

"This can be especially helpful in working with first-time offenders who can possibly be deterred from future delinquent acts," Haas noted.

Cody's ultimate goal is to help the parents help their child—he is a strong advocate of family counseling, Haas stated.

Justice department asks for Hancock jail report

By BRENT MACEY

An attempt by the United States Justice Department to have Federal Bureau of Investigation agents inspect county jails was compromised by Mississippi Attorney General Bill Allain recently to include the option of having each county sheriff's department submit their own report on county jail conditions to the justice department.

The inspection is an attempt by the federal government to insure that inmate constitutional rights are not being violated.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said a form will be mailed to each sheriff's department and each department will have the option of completing the form or face possible future inspection by FBI agents.

The sheriff said the form should be filled out and returned to the Attorney General's office within 100 days of last week.

He stated the attorney general will then forward the information to the justice department.

Peterson said Allain spoke at a Sheriff's Association meeting which Peterson attended this week in Jackson.

He said each sheriff was instructed to contact his county attorney, to decide whether or not to fill out the form.

There is a possibility that if we fill out the form and we are not up to standards then we will be incriminating ourselves," the sheriff said.

"On the other hand if we do not fill out the form then FBI agents may be sent down to inspect the jails themselves."

A letter from the state attorney general's office to the county sheriff's department states if any violations are

Sugar driver arrested

By BRENT MACEY

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department Thursday arrested a tractor trailer driver employed by Dixey Transport Inc. of Hattiesburg for embezzlement of 44,000 pounds of sugar.

Law enforcement officials have been looking for the driver during the past three weeks in connection with a load of sugar en route from Louisiana to Mobile which ended up allegedly being sold to Hancock County residents by the driver.

Sheriff Ronald Peterson said Richard N. Yandle, 48, of Georgetown, S.C. was apprehended at 7 p.m. Thursday after the department received information that Yandle was in a local Bay St. Louis bar.

Bond is set at $15,000.

Peterson said Yandle is currently incarcerated in the Hancock County Jail awaiting a pretrial hearing before Justice Court Judge Bruce Necaise June 17.

Peterson said the department had and "extensive talk" with Yandle and

"the investigation will continue."

Friday the sheriff said the department had recovered some 2,600 pounds of the sugar.

"We have some names of people we feel may have bought some of the sugar," Peterson said.

"The information Yandle gave us may lead us to the whereabouts of more sugar and additional arrests."

Peterson said a "problem with the law" may hinder arrests of people who allegedly bought the sugar.

"We would have to prove that the people knew the sugar was stolen when they bought it," Peterson said.

"That might be difficult," he added.

Peterson said Yandle, during a taped interview, said he entered Hancock County with 44,000 pounds of sugar.

"He said half of that load, or 22,000 pounds of sugar, were stolen from the tractor trailer while he was inside a barroom," Peterson said.

"He admitted he sold the remaining 22,000 pounds of sugar in Hancock County," the sheriff added.

Wife shoots husband in domestic quarrel

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Hancock County Sheriff's deputies were called to an Old Kilmoryne Road residence late Wednesday to investigate a shooting.

Investigator Alvin Ladner stated, "Deputies found that Albert Necaise Jr., 56, Rt. 3, Box 904, Bay St. Louis had been shot once in his upper arm. Necaise was rushed by Mobile Medic to Hancock General where he was treated and released."

The shooting was apparently the result of a domestic quarrel, Ladner said.

Necaise's wife, Mrs. Mary K. Necaise, is being held for the alleged shooting of her husband and is charged with aggravated assault, according to the investigator.

A 38-caliber revolver was suspected as being used in the shooting.

Mrs. Necaise is being held under a $10,000 bond and is scheduled for a preliminary hearing before Justice Court Judge Bruce Necaise.

Officers responding to the call were Ladner, David Murtagh, Nathan Hode, Ronnie Cuevas, Glen Strong, and Waveland investigators Robert Par-tavouille and Sandra Henley.

EDITORIAL

Apology due Supervisors

The Sea Coast Echo's Thursday editorial on the dangerous hole in the Hancock County surf near Buccaneer State Park inadvertently implied members of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors expressed racist attitudes toward the problem.

The Echo apologizes for that implication and regrets any embarrassment it may have caused members of the board, its appointed officers and its employees.

The Sea Coast Echo does not believe any member, officer or employee of the board is a racist or a bigot, and had no intention to imply such a belief.

Reference in the editorial to a remark made at a supervisors meeting apparently in jest, and although in poor taste, not intended to be taken seriously - about the hole being shaped like a watermelon was intended to prick the conscience of the community as a whole, and stir into action anyone who might in any way contribute to a solution of the problem.

Our single intention was and still is to do anything in our power to effect an end to death at that spot, and to encourage and assist anyone else in this county who might contribute to solution of this problem.

When the 26th person drowns in the hole, we all will be guilty.

And on the positive side, we are happy to report Waveland Mayor John Longo has received tentative approval from the U.S. Corps of Engineers to convert that deathtrap into a fishing reef by sinking three scrap barges into it, and has contacted Governor Winter and other officials for assistance on the project.

Supervisor Sam Perniciaro reports he can acquire all the used tires which would be necessary to fill the hole and likewise transform that place of horror into a place of recreation and sport.

Chancery Clerk Mike Necaise said he is contacting officials in Washington to enlist as much support as possible to expedite a solution to the matter.

Joint police effort nabs robbery suspects

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Three persons were arrested during early morning hours Saturday and charged with the alleged robbery of an Amoco Service Station in Waveland.

Over $2,700 was recovered and two adults and one juvenile were charged with armed robbery according to Hancock Investigator Alvin Ladner.

Ladner praised the cooperation between Waveland and Bay St. Louis Police in making the arrests. One suspect was nabbed within 15 minutes of the alleged robbery.

Those arrested were Leo Cook, 19, 359 Church St., Pass Christian; Randall Goodick, 19, 5104 Jeanette Drive, Metairie, La. and a 17 year old juvenile whom police feel masterminded the alleged armed robbery.

Ladner said that Cook has been charged with armed robbery, carrying a concealed weapon and possession of marijuana. He has been placed under a $50,000 bond. Goodick has been charged with armed robbery and was also placed under a $50,000 bond. The juvenile was charged with armed robbery.

Ladner reported the following events, "At 11:45 p.m. Friday, the sheriff's dispatcher received a call that the Amoco Station in Our Shopping Center, Waveland had been robbed. A complete description was given by the caller robber and that description was announced over the radio."

"Bay Patrolman Chris Sand, on foot patrol on Beach Boulevard called in on his walkie talkie that the description and clothing fit Leo Cook whom he had seen earlier that night. Bay Patrolman Wilbert Dorsey was patrolling on Hwy. 90 and reported he recognized Cook in a

School board views plans for classroom additions

By BRENT MACEY

The Hancock County School Board Saturday approved John Mykolyk as the board's architect for the 1981 year and then viewed plans prepared by Mykolyk for construction of sixteen additional classrooms to county schools.

Ten classrooms at Hancock North Central, four classrooms at Gulfview Elementary and two classrooms at Charles B. Murphy Elementary are scheduled for construction.

Approval of a $250,000 millage by the Hancock County supervisors and a approval to finance the project from the Mississippi Educational Finance Committee are still pending and will be necessary before construction can begin.

Board members looked at preliminary drawings which Mykolyk had prepared for the meeting and discussed possible locations for the buildings at each school.

The board then authorized Mykolyk to submit preliminary plans of the project to the EFC. The commission will pay some $18 for each square foot of classroom space if the final blueprint plans are approved.

The board decided against having Mykolyk prepare the final blue prints until the mill tax has been approved.

The board also authorized Mykolyk to hire a surveyor to survey grade elevations at Hancock North Central in an area where classrooms are planned for construction.

The architect also informed the board that he has submitted applications to the Energy Conservation Program concerning changes which can be made at various county schools to conserve energy dollars.

If the changes are approved then that federal program will pay one-half the cost of installing energy saving devices. Mykolyk said a major cost could be saved by replacing incandescent bulbs at Hancock North Central with fluorescent lights.

"In four and one-half years the savings should repay the cost of installation," Mykolyk said.

In other business, the board:

—Waited to approve recommended pay raises for school employees until the 1981-82 school year budget is approved.

—Heard a report from board attorney Joseph Gex that people wishing to acquire 11.6 acres of land in the Bienville community should file a confirmation suit naming Hancock County as the defendant.

"The county would then have to file no claim to the property," Gex said.

The school board has been leasing the land to several families in the Bienville community but has never legally owned that land.

—Authorized Billy Sills, school superintendent, to submit applications to the State Department of Education to receive approval to purchase five school buses needed for the school district before the beginning of the next school year.

—Approved having the principals of all county schools attend the next board meeting this Wednesday at 9 a.m. to discuss school policy and physical conditions of school buildings.

Manufactures list employment densities

Based on information taken from its 1981 Mississippi Manufacturers Directory, the Mississippi Research and Development Center has recently published maps showing the geographical distribution of manufacturing plants throughout the state for 19 industrial categories.

According to Mrs. Ruby Hendricks, economic analyst at the R&D Center, manufacturing employment is concentrated in Hinds (20,608), Jackson (18,930), Lee (12,819), and Lowndes (8,083) counties. These four counties represent over 25 percent of total manufacturing employment in the state. (See attached Map.)

The apparel industry, which is by far the largest manufacturing employer in Mississippi, is dispersed throughout the state. While the food and kindred products industry and the lumber and wood products industry also are found throughout the state, a large number of the establishments in both of these industries are located in the central, northeastern, and southern parts of the state.

"Most of the establishments in the lumber and wood products industry are small," Hendricks said.

"However, the Masonite Corporation in Laurel is one of the state's major manufacturers."

Transportation equipment, the second largest employment industry in the state with over 24,000 workers, is concentrated in the coastal section of the state.

This category is dominated by the huge Ingalls Shipbuilding Division of Litton Industries, located in Pascagoula. The map indicates the transportation equipment industry is also strong in central Mississippi, where a large number of workers are employed by Sperry-Vickers in Jackson and Packard Electric Division of General Motors in Clinton. The map also indicates that Hinds, Lauderdale, Harrison, and Washington counties lead in the fabricated metals industry, with central Mississippi being the focal point of production.

Mrs. Hendricks related that most establishments in the machinery industry (both electrical and nonelectrical) are located in central, southern, and northeastern Mississippi. There are a large number of machinery manufacturers in the Jackson metropolitan area and a growing number in the Gulfport-Biloxi area.

Greenville-Washington County is also an important location for this industry. Many of the larger companies in this industry are located in the northern part of the state and include McQuay-Perfex, Inc., in Grenada and Rockwell International Corporation in Tupelo.

In addition to assisting with industrial development efforts, Mrs. Hendricks states that the maps will help answer questions often posed by prospects regarding where competitors are concentrated and where complementary products are produced.

Additional copies of any or all of these maps can be obtained by writing: Public Information Office, Mississippi Research and Development Center, Post Office Drawer 2470, Jackson, Mississippi 39206.

Bay trustees balk at secret meetings

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Two members of the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees Tuesday night balked at a request by a coaching staff representative for an executive session to discuss salary supplements.

But in spite of the objections the board decided to conduct the secret session in which no action was taken.

The board voted at a previous meeting not to increase coaching supplements, but did increase supplements for the district's band director and his assistant.

Walter Turcotte, board president, stated the purpose of the meeting was to hear the coach's comments regarding salary supplement increases and said those speaking should abide by the board's 10-minute speaking limit policy.

The board president asked Barney Necaise, Bay Junior High's basketball coach, to speak, but he deferred to Billy Rhodes, North Bay Elementary School coach, who reported he was the coach's spokesman.

Rhodes stated, "We would like to make our report in two phases and make a small presentation. It is also our unanimous request that we speak to you in executive session."

Turcotte immediately requested a motion to conduct an executive session. But Trustee Maurice Singleton stated, "I'm against executive session for discussing salaries or any money so far as the taxpayers are concerned."

After Singleton received applause from several patrons in the audience he stated, "However, since we gave the same privilege to administrators I think we should also do the same for you and I offer a motion to go into executive session."

Trustee James Ginn asked, "Are there any personalities involved in this discussion?"

Rhodes replied, "Yes."

Singleton said, "I'd like to also say this is the last time I will approve an executive session to discuss salaries and I'd like that included in my motion."

Trustee Virginia Gex stated, "I agree, but I think we should decide executive sessions on an individual basis."

Singleton agreed and withdrew the addition to his motion.

Some confusion arose when Trustee Betty Diboll voted against the secret session because some board members thought unanimous vote was necessary.

Board Attorney Lucien Gex was not present, but Attorney Joseph Gex, husband of Virginia Gex, was at the meeting and advised the board a unanimous vote was not necessary.

Diboll stated, "I feel like when we are spending public money our meetings should be open to the public."

The board entered the secret session at 7:40 p.m. excluding patrons and members of the press, but J.D. McCullough, superintendent of education, and Wilmer Seymour, athletic director, were allowed to attend the meeting.

Some of the coaches during the closed session complained that this past school year the supplements were not enough to pay for their expenses.

They also complained of the band director and his assistant receiving supplement increases.

At 9:45 p.m. the coaches and Seymour left the closed meeting. The executive session ended at 10 p.m.

Turcotte stated no action was taken by the board and thanked the coaches for attending the meeting.

Twenty miles an adventure in pre-automobile days

By Grady Thigpen

Wagons have almost disappeared from the American scene.

When I started in business in Picaune in 1919, there were no such things as motor trucks.

Every farmer came to town in a wagon, and many people living here in the edge of Picaune would drive in to town in wagons.

Customers came in from as far away as Necaise, Catahoula, Henleyfield, distances up to 20 miles in wagons, getting started before daylight and getting back home after dark with only a couple of hours spent in town.

Wagons played a great part in the lives of people up to about 60 years ago. The purchase of a wagon was a big event in most any family in those days, even comparable to the purchase of a new car now.

When I first started in business here in Picaune, we sold many wagons, getting a bigger volume of business out of wagons than any other line of merchandise we sold.

We bought them in car load lots, getting in 35 to 40 in a car and would buy 3 or 4 car loads a year.

For some reasons or other all wagon gears were painted red and the bodies green, trimmed in either white or blue stripes. That was the one style color combination in wagons.

For hundreds of years the wagon was the only means of hauling freight, produce, etc. and most country people traveled from place to place in wagons.

I well remember as a boy up in Jasper County, Mississippi, that we would go to market about twice a year to a railroad town about 20 miles away in a 2 horse wagon.

We would carry cotton, and other products to market and bring back the things we needed from the stores in the railroad town. I must have been about 8 or 9 years old the first time my father let me go with him to town.

We got into the little town just before sun down after taking all day to drive the 20 miles with a heavily loaded two horse wagon. My father unhitched the mules and tied them to a hitching post about 200 feet from the railroad track.

The tired dog that had followed us all the way curled up under the parked wagon to rest. My father had gone into the store to do his trading while I lingered on the front.

About that time I heard the most tremendous noise I had ever heard in all my life. Never had I heard anything like that.

I stood on the porch of the store gazing in the direction the noise came from. Suddenly around the bend I saw my first train.

I had heard of trains but my imagination had pictured nothing like this terrifying thing that came hurtling through the air in my general direction.

The dog tucked his tail and ran for his life going under the store. The mules in fright plunged and reared to get loose. What I did not know as I was too excited to remember.

Then the train was gone and there was quiet again. Soon we loaded the wagon with what my father had purchased and started back towards home.

About 2 miles out it was getting dark, we stopped under some trees, fed the mules, collected some pine straw, laid our blankets on the straw and went to sleep.

In the night it began to rain and we moved under the wagon to keep dry.

A trip like this was not unusual 75 years ago, as old people will remember.

Poole, standing inside the doorway, recently opened the odds and ends shop which deals in the sale of "just about anything except guns." Poole calls the mannequin "Miss Waveland" and says he will be dressing her in a bikini soon. It has been a struggle for the employees working in the Hancock County Courthouse for the past several weeks with the air-conditioner on the blink.

We understand some parts are needed and the service company has been trying to find the parts all over the country. We hope they are successful real soon in finding the parts so the unit can be repaired.

We know all the employees will be grateful with the return of air conditioning.

There will be a blood drawing next Wednesday, June 10, from 2-8 p.m. at the American Legion Home, Blue Meadow Road, Bay St. Louis.

We understand our blood supply is very low and a good drawing is necessary to bring our units on hand up to a good supply.

CONSUMER REPORT

BILL ALLAIN, ATTORNEY GENERAL

TIPS FOR RENTERS

Attorney General Bill Allain suggests that when looking for an apartment to rent, you should consider several important points before signing a lease or contract.

Allain states that by taking the following precautions one may eliminate any future complications.

—Read the lease very carefully and be sure you understand all of it before signing.

—If there are any variations or exceptions agreed to by the owner or manager, make sure they are written into the lease before you sign it.

—Be sure you get a copy of the lease at the time with the owner's or manager's signature.

—Before signing the lease, find out what repairs in the apartment you will be responsible for and those the management will be responsible for.

—Remember that you will be responsible for damage that is beyond normal wear and tear.

—There may be some questions you need to ask in regard to children, pets, visitors, parking, etc. Sometimes there is an additional fee for pets or children. Be sure you know the management's position on these questions before signing rather than after as it may be too late.

—There has been much controversy recently over security deposit refunds. In order to be as careful as possible in getting a refund on your deposit, it would be wise to take pictures of the apartment when you move in if there are questions about existing damage to the apartment. This would be very good evidence to back up your claims as to condition at time of occupancy.

—When your lease expires, photograph the interior of your apartment again. Encourage the owner or manager to physically inspect the apartment and attempt to obtain his signature to a written statement verifying the present condition of the premises.

In certain parts Mississippi, apartments are very scarce as is other residential rental property. Remember, there are very few laws that offer legal recourse to renters when problems or disagreements arise.

For additional information contact Attorney General Bill Allain, Consumer Protection Division, P.O. Box 220, Jackson, Mississippi 39205.

OFFICIAL PUBLICATIONS

Attorney General Bill Allain is alerting Mississippi businesses to be cautious when called upon to buy advertisements in magazines which claim to be associated with Law Enforcement Agencies.

Allain states that you should check with your local police department, sheriff's office or other local law enforcement organizations to verify the publication before committing yourself.

Some of these are very legitimate and serve a useful purpose, but others do not. Many of these magazines are merely a profit making venture for the promoter and in no way provide a service to the organization claiming to be represented.

These solicitations are usually done by phone and many times the magazine promoter relies on the title alone to do the selling. Therefore, the customer is left with the impression that he has purchased an advertisement that will benefit Law Enforcement Officers.

If a Publication's Solicitor approaches you:

—Be sure of the organization's name, the solicitor's name, and his position with the organization.

—Ask how your advertisement will benefit the organization.

—Find out the number of issues to be printed and the area of distribution.

Remember contact your local law enforcement agencies if you are seriously considering making a contribution or purchasing advertising.

Any complaints regarding misleading advertisement solicitations should be directed to the Attorney General's Office of Consumer Protection, P.O. Box 220, Jackson, Mississippi 39205.

Washington Report

By Congressman Trent Lott

5th District, Mississippi

WE CAN CONTROL
THE BUREAUCRACY

A recent study indicated that every man, woman and child in America pays more than $454 each year to support the cost of federal regulations.

That amounts to a cost of approximately $100 billion on the U.S. economy each year and it's far too heavy a burden.

Yet, when you talk about ways to cut back on the federal regulatory load, you find a marked difference of opinion on how to do it. Some say pass new laws to control the bureaucracy; some say eliminate the regulatory agencies.

My efforts to find acceptable middle ground has resulted in introduction of a new bill called the "Regulatory Control Act of 1981." It is primarily a bill calling for legislative veto of regulations which Congress finds to be contrary to law or congressional intent, or for other reasons.

Frankly, there is even a difference of opinion between many Members of Congress and the Reagan administration on the issue of the legislative veto. And, we must be careful not to violate any standards mandated by the U.S. Constitution.

My proposed compromise, however, meets the administration more than half way.

I am under no illusion that the legislative veto is any cure-all for the problem of regulatory excess and abuse. But as I said in remarks on the House floor last week, I am strongly convinced that the tool can be an effective weapon in the congressional oversight arsenal.

Under terms of my bill, both houses of Congress could disapprove any proposed regulation of an independent agency for any reason, and of an executive agency if Congress finds the regulation is contrary to law or congressional intent.

Other proposed executive agency regulations and all existing regulations could be disapproved by a joint action of Congress and the President, or congressional override of a presidential veto.

The administration has opposed most legislative veto bills on constitutional grounds. But the Reagan administration has indicated it supports disapproval resolutions for executive agencies, subject to presidential approval, and lesser veto devices for some independent agencies.

Because 220 Members of Congress already have co-sponsored one legislative veto bill, I seriously doubt that a weak measure would pass. There is a clear need for some compromise to avoid a direct collision between the legislative and the executive branches.

Further, we must not lose sight of the legislation's goals: to cut the cost of regulation in this country and control the bureaucracy.

Dear Governor Winter:

Recently, I spoke to the Corps of Engineers about attempting to solve the problem of a dangerous hole in front of Waveland, Hancock County, Mississippi. This area of the sound has claimed twenty-five (25) lives.

They feel they could issue a permit for an artificial fishing reef.

I have a contact with Ernest Mitchell in Slidell, Louisiana, who could sink barges in this dangerous hole and solve the problem along with creating a recreational fishing area.

Hopefully, you can assist us in this project or point us in the right direction.

Lifeguards brought 1980 moratorium

on death in Waveland surf hole

Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir:

I am writing in reference to Thursday's article on "THE HOLE".

Something should be done before number 26 comes along.

While we are waiting for the County Board of Supervisors to decide what they are going to do about this matter, what happens in the meantime?

Two summers ago, my younger brother, Carlos Lozano, was upset about this whole situation and went to the Board of Supervisors.

He persuaded them to give him a job as lifeguard on the beach in front of the Hole.

Carlos, went out and got a few boys and girls to help him.

Carlos and Whitney Johnson took a shift and Kevin Atwell and Elizabeth Williams another.

They got paid by the County minimum wage.

The police force let them use walkie-talkies. They had safety floats, whistles, and binoculars.

No one provided a stand or shade of any kind. They sat on a blanket all day, and watched the area.

NOT one person drowned that summer.

People don't listen to them, and if anyone started to go to close to the hole they blew their whistles and went out after them.

I think those boys and girls did a good job that summer, and a lot of people look up to them for what they did.

I thank them for caring enough.

A lot of you young people are out of school now and have Lifeguard experience—Go to the Board, I Plead with you!!

Tell them you care and want to do something to help.

If the county cannot pay these boys and girls, who would be interested, then, what do they pay the police force for?

They know we have this problem. Put two men on foot out there on the beach. They can tell people not to go out that far.

Driving up and down the beach is not going to help in this matter.

They have signs, YES, but it is unfortunate some people cannot read, or will not read them.

Something needs to be done NOW, not later, before it's too late.

I do hope something becomes of this letter - and soon. We have no time to waste.

Thank you,

Dear Editor:

The Concerned Citizens Organization of Hancock County wishes to commend the Sea Coast Echo on its editorials and news story relating to the water hazard.

The Sea Coast Echo should be commended for bringing the facts about the hole to the citizens of the communities.

We know that this hole has created a serious problem through the years, and we like the idea of the creation of an island.

We would like for some of our officials to take a ride and take a look at the Paul B. Johnson State Park near Hattiesburg on Highway 49.

It is possible a similar solution like used at the state park could be used to mark off the hole.

Regardless of race, black or white, we need the problem solved.

We wonder what the watermelon has to do with the drownings of blacks and whites.

This should not deter the Board of Supervisors or any other interested persons from trying to provide protection at any and all costs.

Money cannot be used as a value in relation to a human life.

Local teachers, school system produces doctors, lawyers, engineers

Editor
The Sea Coast Echo

Sir,

For quite a long time now we have been listening to criticism of our local school system and its leaders. We feel that the time has come to speak up for the Good Guys (and Dolls), but this time in a positive vein.

Twenty-three years ago we settled here and deliver our offspring, one by one, into the hands of the public school system. At the time there was a disciplinary problem, but thanks to tough action by the leaders it was corrected, with quite a bit of criticism from some parents.

Since then, as before, a large percentage of the graduates have succeeded in becoming doctors, lawyers, engineers and business executives.

Most of these received their initial discipline and drive at home.

After all, one does not throw a six year old at the school system like, "It's yours now, I wash my hands off this stupid, unmanageable kid."

Home education between ages three and six is still the most important foundation. Teachers educate your kids, they don't raise them.

Two weeks ago we attended the graduation exercises at Mississippi College, where our Patricia received her degree in nuclear physics with high honors.

From Bay High to college, then marriage, back to college and finally, following in the footsteps of her brothers (both graduate engineers), the first step to the top.

And guess why these young people chose these difficult fields of endeavor and succeeded so well: motivation by their teachers in the local school system.

It can be explained by a simple remark from Patricia: "I did not like science, but Mr. Magee convinced me in his ways."

So, ladies and gentlemen of the teaching profession, you "People with the White Hats," take a bow. You are and always will be: tops.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions
About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

You are always writing about profits as if that's the most important goal for a business. What about social responsibility and service to the community? I'm tired of the Profit Motive.

Dear ITOPM: As we have said many times, the bottom line is selling maximum quality goods at high volume with minimum costs.

For maximum sales can be achieved only with lower costs and quality—in other words the most for the money spent.

Lower prices on quality goods come only through volume sales. This is true because a business can, through volume, make a reasonable return on a very small per unit mark-up.

But, back to your premise, most businessmen feel social responsibility is best met by doing just what we were talking about—providing the best quality goods at the lowest possible prices.

Their ability to do this will be conditioned by location, overhead and volume.

Small dealers may be able to compete with volume dealers only by keeping overhead cut to a minimum, and by stocking only relatively fast moving goods.

Advertising plays a major role in helping achieve all these goals. Rather than being an additional cost which is added on to the consumer's price, advertising builds volume which lowers most per unit prices well below the level they would be without promotion.

Businesses also serve the public, through advertising, by not only telling where lower prices are to be found, but by informing new prospects about availability of goods in the community.

This saves them time and travel or shipping costs, and helps build the community as a marketplace. The community benefits in increased taxes and dollar turnover. The business outlet benefits from increased sales.

So, beyond this, I don't know what you mean by social responsibility. But if it adds to the cost of goods, you probably won't get it.

Careful attention to the bottom line provides benefits to all. Businessmen who concentrate on this provide a good service—those who don't render a disservice to everyone concerned.

JUNE DAIRY MONTH

Each year June is designated as "Dairy Month." This is the 45th year as a nationwide salute to the Dairy Industry.

In Mississippi, a tribute to the Dairy Industry is proper and fitting as dairying ranks seventh in the total value of farm production.

The entire dairy industry has made tremendous strides in providing the consumer with highly nutritional products.

Last year, a little over a 1,000 dairy farmers produced 813 million pounds of milk.

Although the number of dairy farms have decreased; those remaining are increasing in volume.

The dairy farmer is continually increasing milk output per cow in an effort to lower his overall cost of production per unit.

Twenty years ago, the average production per cow amounted to a little over 3,300 pounds. Last year, the average production per cow amounted to almost 8,300—over 2½ times more. Likewise, the number of dairy cows have declined. The average number during 1980 was about 99,000 head.

The economic importance of the dairy industry to the State of Mississippi is of major importance. Dairy farmers, milk processing plants, and others engaged in the distribution of milk and milk products generate over $333 million worth of economic activity to our state's well being. The sale of milk by Mississippi dairy farmers totaled over $111 billion last year and ranked seventh as a major source of agricultural income.

Additionally, there are 71 firms engaged in the processing, manufacturing and distribution of milk and milk products in the state. The average monthly employment of these firms are about 2,000 people with an estimated annual payroll of over $21 million.

The uniqueness of the dairying industry deserves some special consideration. Farmers that produce milk for market must milk their cows at least twice each day. Therefore, the typical day finds the dairy farmer at the barns many hours before daylight and his day ends after dark.

Milk not handled properly is an ideal source for bacterial growth. As a result, milk must be refrigerated at the farm and this refrigeration must be maintained until the ultimate consumption.

Through the biological characteristics of milk production farmers cannot adjust their supply to meet short run demand requirements in the market place. Rather through skilled management the dairy farmer can only adjust production in the long run. So the time lag in the production process adds to the uniqueness of the industry.

While there have been some declines in the dairy industry in recent years dairy farmers and milk processors have adjusted and thereby increased their efficiency of operation. There are, however, some stabilizing trends projected in the Dairy Industry in the near future. Through increased output of milk per cow and through added volumes of processing, the industry has provided consumers with sufficient milk and milk products at a lower cost per unit. In doing so they have also generated economic activity that makes them a major contributor to the overall economy of the State of Mississippi.

Jeff Davis

Pass degrees

In commencement exercises marked by the conspicuous absence of long speeches and restless squirming on hard seats, 227 Gulf Coast Junior College students were graduated from Jefferson Davis Campus.

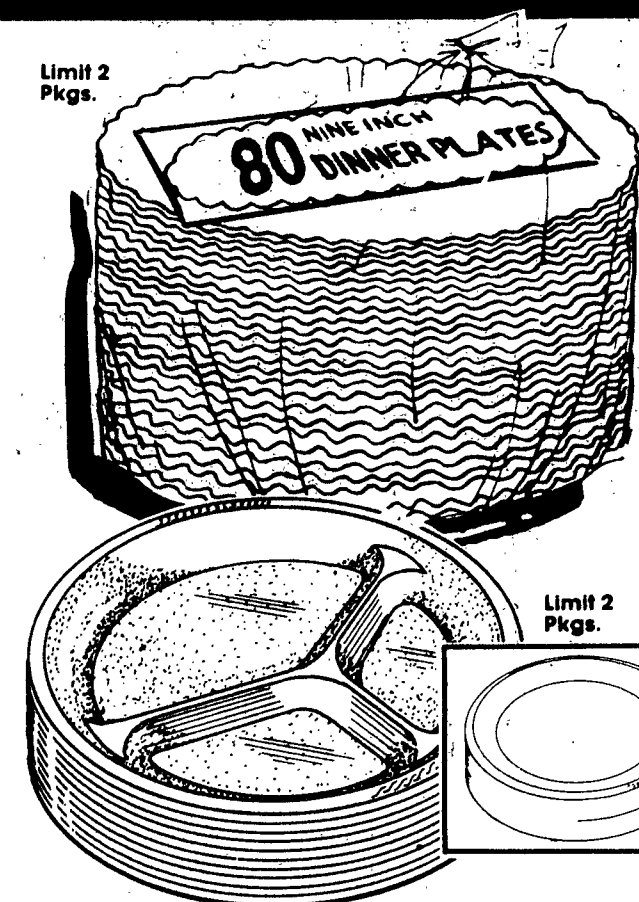

Awarding degrees and certificates to the blue-gowned class, including six students with perfect 4.0 records, was GCJC President J. J. Hayden Jr. The candidates were presented by Executive Dean Glen Cadle. Cadle at the onset of the program told the class the ceremony was "a time of endings and of new beginnings. We look forward to your success in the jobs some of you will go to now or to the senior colleges you will attend in the pursuit of higher degrees."

To those planning to continue their education, the dean said surveys show that graduates of GCJC "do as well and in many instances better than students who began their educational careers in four-year institutions."

Another speaker, Mrs. Eula Switzer, vice chairperson of the college board of trustees, noted that: "You are graduating from a college that has more freshmen and sophomores than any college in Mississippi."

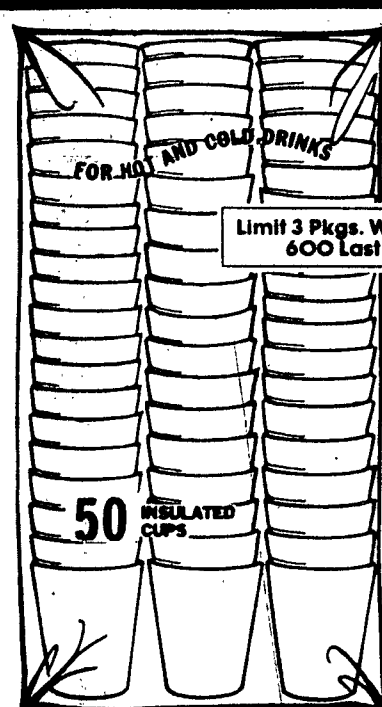

Among students receiving special awards were Janet Gex, Tracy Moran, Barbara O'Mallie, and Tamara Word. All of Pass Christian. Honor graduates included Belinda Clark and Clark Shull, also of Pass Christian.

found by FBI agents during inspection of various jails then the justice department will attempt to bring those jails into a penitentiary lawsuit.

"If that occurs then the local jail will be under the jurisdiction of the federal court and subject to the court's orders," the letter continues.

"You as sheriff would have to operate your jail in the manner that the federal courts would prescribe and this could involve having to spend substantial amounts of the county's money."

Peterson would not comment on whether he thought the Hancock County Jail might be below standards.

"I have not seen the form yet," he said.

"There is the possibility that our biggest problem may be overcrowding," he added.

The sheriff said federal law requires each inmate be allowed 50 square feet of space.

Currently the county jail on Court street houses 14 state prisoners of an average 25 inmates.

"If it were not for the number of state inmates then we would have very little problem," the sheriff said.

Besides the space requirements the sheriff stated the federal government also requires a dietitian to prepare the food, an exercise yard to be included in the jail, and inmates to receive adequate medical attention.

Included in the letter is the recommendation that each sheriff take whatever steps are necessary to make sure the jails meet constitutional requirements.

Peterson said, "We feel we are in pretty good shape here with the possible exception of overcrowding."

He said the most immediate remedy would be to have the state take all state inmates out of the county jail and place them in the state penitentiary.

He said the second option is a "long range project" involving construction of a new jail.

"That would take about two years," he said.

Final Mississippi I-10 link to open June 18

The final eight miles of the cross-country Interstate-10 highway which runs through Mississippi's Gulf Coast counties from Jacksonville, Fla. to Los Angeles, Calif. will be opened in Jackson County June 18.

Mississippi Southern District Highway Commissioner Bob Joiner said Thursday opening of the final 8.2 mile link between Miss. Hwy. 63 in Escatawpa and the Alabama line will be marked by unveiling of a "golden spike" in the roadway.

Joiner called the opening of the last part of the $192 million interstate in Mississippi "a very significant and historical occasion for the Gulf Coast."

Joiner spoke at a press conference Thursday afternoon at the Pascagoula-Moss Point Chamber of Commerce.

He said I-10 "is very strongly tied into the economy of this area."

Opening ceremonies will begin at 3:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 18, on I-10 west of the Mississippi-Alabama line, east of Pascagoula.

A 5,000 meter run, sponsored by the Gulf Coast Jogging Club and Mississippi Highway Department, will be held prior to the event on the new stretch of highway.

The golden spike will be used as a symbol of joining east to west, much as the golden spike which was driven into the first railroad joining the Atlantic and Pacific in the last century, Joiner said.

Joiner said although I-10 in Mississippi has been completed, a portion of I-10 in Texas is the only part of the interstate lacking from Coast to Coast.

Construction on this particular portion of I-10 began in June 1975, when W. S. Newell Inc. of Montgomery, Ala., was awarded the contract for building the roadway base and bridges from the Pascagoula River to Pollack Road at a cost of $14.8 million, Joiner noted.

L&A Contracting Company of Hattiesburg built the Escatawpa River bridge and approaches at a cost of $8.7 million.

The third phase construction came when Newell was awarded a $3.5 million contract for building the roadway base from Old U.S. 90 to the Mississippi-Alabama line.

Paving of the interstate from the Pascagoula River to the state line, a total of 8.2 miles, cost $8.7 million under a contract signed in February 1979 with Mid-State James of Meridian.

Joiner called attention to the continual escalation of road construction costs over the six years the interstate was under construction in eastern Jackson County.

He said the 1979 contract called for about $1 million per mile, but if this same contract were let today, it would be about $1.3 million per mile.

The Mississippi welcome station in Jackson County, to be built at the Mississippi-Alabama line, several miles east of Pascagoula, is now under contract for construction, said Joiner.

In October, the second-to-the last section of I-10 between Miss. 57 and Miss. 63, an 11-mile stretch, was opened.

A short time after this another I-10 milestone was marked in Jackson County with the opening of the Gautier Interchange to the interstate, which had been stalled for many years by the controversy over the habitat of the Mississippi Sandhill Crane.

Joiner said it was his policy "not to hopscotch around." He said he felt it is practical to complete work in one section and he intends to continue work on four-laning of Mississippi 63 toward Lucedale.

"The north-south highway is significant and important to the future development of all counties," he said.

He said a project in Ocean Springs of four-laning an access road to I-10 would be the major subject of a trip he is making to Washington, D.C., to discuss funding.

"This will be a hard battle," said Joiner of the project. "It will be long and drawn out. It will take time."

He reported progress in another project in Jackson County — repairs on the Pascagoula River bridge in Pascagoula. He said the bridge, which was often stuck in an open position last year, is being completely re-wired. "It hasn't broken down for three months," Joiner said.

Bay dogcatcher quits

By BRENT MACEY

The Bay St. Louis city animal warden position is vacant again after the last animal warden resigned over one week ago.

Lucy Tell, 38, was the second animal warden to be hired and resign the position in the past month.

"The job just became too much," she said recently.

A new warden has yet to be hired by the city according to Janet Aime, city secretary.

"It's not the sort of job which people are beating the door down to get," Aime added.

She said two applications have been submitted and the mayor will be talking with the applicants in the near future.

Presently city crews are managing the dog pound on Third Street until the position is occupied.

Tell said she quit after she found she "couldn't do anything at the shelter."

"As soon as anything was built at the shelter it would be vandalized," she said.

She stated runways which she and her husband built at the pound were torn down by vandals.

She said several pure bred black labrador puppies at the pound were also len.

"Somebody brought a dog with parvo who was half dead and left him by the gate," she stated.

"She said two dogs inside the pound caught the disease and all three of the dogs died."

Some 25 of the 100 pounds of dog food which the city supplies for the shelter each month were also stolen, she said.

"I wonder sometimes if people really want a dog shelter," she asked.

car pulling up at a highway restaurant," Ladner continued.

Dorsey was advised to keep the subject under surveillance until Ladner and Deputy David Murtagh arrived.

Ladner said, "I went into the place of business and asked Cook to come outside, which he did, he revealed that he had a small caliber gun under the front seat. Also a small amount of marijuana was found. A further check revealed approximately one half pound of marijuana in the vehicle."

"The subject was then taken to Waveland where Investigators Robert Tartavouille and Sandra Henley joined in the investigation."

Further investigation led police to a cache of money in the office of Popeye's Fried Chicken's, Bay St. Louis and to the arrest of Goodick, whom police feel was the driver in the alleged robbery get-a-way car.

Police later returned to Waveland and arrested the juvenile whom they feel had planned the alleged robbery.

Ladner said, "A woman attendant at the station was told to lay on the floor by the gunman during the robbery."

Other officers in assistance were Waveland Patrolman John Wilkerson, Claude Yarbrough and Hancock Deputies Paul Bernard and David Garcia.

Police reported they worked until 5 a.m. Saturday on the investigation.

Energy Waste thrives during Southeast Mississippi's hot, humid summers... but by following these air conditioning suggestions you can help keep Energy Waste out of your home.

THERMOSTAT SETTING
A few degrees will make a big difference. For greater efficiency and less cost during the summer, set the thermostat at the highest comfortable temperature, usually about 78 degrees or higher. As shown by the chart below, the difference between maintaining 75 degrees and 72 degrees can increase energy consumption as much as 33 percent.

Energy Efficiency Ratio
If you replace or add a cooling unit, select one with a high energy efficiency ratio (EER). The higher the EER number, the more efficient the cooling unit. Generally, an EER number of 7.5 or better is considered good.

FREE PASSAGE OF AIR
Don't block the air flow the equipment needs. Keep shrubbery trimmed around the air conditioning equipment. Inside, make certain that you keep window drapes and furniture out of air flow path.

EQUIPMENT INSPECTION
It's a good idea to have your air conditioning equipment inspected by a qualified serviceman at the beginning of the cooling season. You could prevent an expensive repair bill. And remember, an air conditioning unit in proper working condition will mean better efficiency and lower operating costs.

GET SET FOR SUMMER HEAT

Remember that air conditioners bring comfort during hot summer months, but they also mean higher electric service bills. If you are a typical Mississippi Power residential customer, you will use twice as many kilowatt-hours of electricity during the summer months as you used in April. We want to help you get the greatest possible value from your electric service dollar.

FILTER MAINTENANCE
Clean or change the air conditioning filter at least once a month. More frequently if necessary. A dirty or clogged filter will make your air conditioning unit work harder and use more electricity. A dirty filter may lead to serious and expensive repairs.

GENERAL OPERATION
If your air conditioner has been shut off during a cool night, give it an early start the next morning before a new day's heat fills the house. But remember, when starting the unit, don't set the thermostat on a colder than normal setting. This will only make the unit run longer not cool any faster.

Don't block the air flow the equipment needs. Keep shrubbery trimmed around the air conditioning equipment. Inside, make certain that you keep window drapes and furniture out of air flow path.

FOOD SERIES

I will be instructing a food preservation class series on Tuesdays in June, beginning June 9 and continuing for 4 weeks. The class will be taught at the County Extension Office, 405 Necaise Avenue, Bay St. Louis, at 9:30 a.m.

Class participants will cover use of the pressure canner, pickling, jams, jellies and freezing.

Pre-registration is required. The pre-registration fee is $15 and the class divides the products at the end of the series.

HOME STUDY COURSE
For those of you who would rather learn correct food preservation techniques at home, we offer this service.

You will receive a study course guide and all the information you need to update your skills or learn the correct way to preserve food at home. The course is free. To enroll call (467-5456) or come by my office to pick up the packet of material.

RECIPES AVAILABLE

We have numerous information sheets on canning, freezing, and drying of foods. Just call or come by to request any you'd like to have. Below is a partial listing. Home Canning Tabloid; Pickle Recipes; Relish Recipes; Jelly, Jam, and Preserve Recipes; Summer Squash Pickles & Relishes; Okra; Freezing Meat, Poultry and Fish; Freezing Vegetables & Fruits; Drying Fruits and Vegetables; Preserving Mississippi Blackberries.

CANNERS TESTED

Over the years your pressure canner gauge may have lost accuracy. I will be glad to test your pressure canner for you — free of charge. Please label the canner with your name and address and telephone number and bring it by my office.

CROSS STITCH

The beginners classes were so well received, we decided to hold advanced classes. They will meet on Tuesday, June 9, from 1-2 p.m. and 7-8 p.m. (repeat).

Mrs. Betty Fields will again be the instructor. She will teach you how to figure the amount of fabric you will need for a given pattern. The class is free.

BLUEBERRY SHORTCOURSE

The Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service in conjunction with the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service and the USDA-SEA-AR is hosting a Blueberry Short Course at Pearl River Junior College and the Small Fruit Research Station at Poplarville on June 10, 1981.

Experts in the field will discuss production, irrigation, weed control, pick-your-own, and the economics of production. After lunch, participants will visit the Small Fruit Research Station to observe irrigation, propagation procedures, planting methods, fertilization tests and variety trials.

FLOWER ARRANGING

A special interest program on arranging fresh and silk flowers will be held Wednesday, June 17, from 1-2 p.m. at the Farm Bureau Building on Hwy. 603 in Kiln.

The class will be taught by John Davis, area horticulture specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. It's free to the public. Davis will give away some of the arrangements as door prizes.

FIRE ANTS

You and almost everyone you know is having trouble with these pesky beasts. The federal, state and county governments have pooled resources and purchased ant poison to be given to residents of Hancock County at the rate of one pound per household. This ant poison is available at the County Extension Office for as long as the supply lasts.

The Spinal Column

BY WILLIAM L. POWELL, D.C.

Low Back and Hip Pain

Many times throughout the year, a patient with low back or leg pain comes to the office with a diagnosis of "strain" or "sprain" already made. Generally heat, braces, medications, and traction have already been applied without giving any lasting relief. Our continued success in treating these cases stems mainly from our careful evaluation of any pelvic misalignments and of course, proper treatment (once the true problem is identified).

Falls and accidents can easily influence the pelvis and often if symptoms arise following an accident, proper examination and treatment may well avoid present and future problems.

TLC eases pain of nursing home confinement for Waveland couple

EDITOR'S NOTE: H. M. Bardin, long time Waveland resident, retired New Orleans construction executive and free lance writer describes his experiences in placing his wife and then himself in a Gulf Coast nursing home.

By H. M. BARDIN
(Special to
The Sea Coast Echo)

To most people, any mention of a nursing home evokes nothing. Still paralyzed on her left side, she gradually recovered speech and strength enough to sit up in a special wheel chair. She can feed herself with her right hand, enjoys her food, and is very little trouble for the nurses and aides.

The more often I came to visit, the more I was impressed with the quality of the care given to the patients.

telligence. The list of impairments ranges through so many conditions that it would take a week to enumerate them. Some are totally bedridden, usually asleep, eyes closed and mouth open. Many of the wheel chair people sit in the day room, gazing listlessly into space, uninterested in their surroundings. Conversely, some are real pests, and while incompatible with each other, tempers flare, and one of the pair will have to be switched to keep the peace.

Corridors and doorways are wide; continuous handrails on each side of corridors provide assistance for those who can hardly walk. Food is uniformly good, with a disappointing meal once in a while. Cooking for, serving and pleasing 180 people, plus staff and guests three times a day can't be an easy job, or 100 percent successful all the time. Trays are arranged to meet the prescribed diet of each resident — low fat, salt free, liquid and diabetic to name a few. Medication several times a day for so many different people requires very close attention by the nurses.

The main dining room in A wing is large, lovely, all glass and drapes on the side facing the Gulf, providing a nice view of sailboats, oyster luggers, and sunlight glinting on the water.

The efficiency of the whole operation is outstanding. Floors are kept spotless; like everything else, and gleam with wax, yet are not slippery or in any way dangerous. You see very little soldiering or inattention to duty. Housekeeping is very meticulously carried out. In general there is more alacrity than there is dawdling.

Yes, TLC — bushels of it — is what creates harmony throughout the whole operation. I'd hate to think what would be the result without it. Even new employees seem to get infused with it promptly, so it must be contagious.

It's ten o'clock; the coffee urn for our wing has just arrived from the kitchen, so I'll get a cup for myself, and perhaps draw a cup or two for those who can't serve themselves. So you see that some of the TLC must have rubbed off on me, too.

I will be glad when my doctor says I have recovered enough to try living on my own again. But should circumstances make it necessary for me to return to a nursing home, Miramar will be the one for me. Thank you, Janet, Donna, Jill, Beulah, Pat, Jerry, Edith, Miss Featherfoot, Marlin, Barbie waitress — I can't name them — your TLC. My wife joins me in all. Thank you so much for this.

Howard and Hazel Bardin of Waveland enjoy a moment together at Miramar Nursing Home in Pass Christian thoughts of things like poor conditions, abuse of residents, sub-standard food, an inattentive staff and worse.

If you ever visited one, you probably encountered some or all of these conditions. You read quite often of forced closings and citations for violations. There is no doubt that many of these actions are justified.

Over three years ago, my wife suffered a stroke one night. If the ambulance had been ten minutes later she would have been gone. She was hospitalized for 42 days. Paralysis of her left side made her completely helpless, and required full nursing care around the clock. It was obvious that she would never be able to return home.

Her doctor suggested taking steps to have her admitted to a nursing home, because the Hancock Hospital could do no more for her. This required putting her name on the waiting list at two or three nursing homes, since the ones we called in New Orleans and Mississippi were all full.

Asked for her recommendation, the doctor recommended Miramar on Scenic Drive in Pass Christian as being much superior to any other she knew of; besides, it was located only ten miles from where I live in Waveland.

Miramar turned out to be the first one to call in with a vacancy. When I went there to make formal application, I was very favorably impressed with their facilities and staff. Shortly afterward, my wife was admitted, and I breathed a little easier.

In the three years that have followed, I usually visited her three or four times a week. Her improvement has been wonderful.

At first she was totally helpless, was fed through a tube in her nose, had to be restrained and turned in bed every two hours. She was speechless and recognized

Then, it suddenly came my turn to require similar care.

A series of events — throat cancer in 1978, aneurism of the aorta in early 1980, followed by a bad fall later in 1980 resulting in a fractured right arm and a skull fracture has kept me hospitalized, or convalescing for most of the year. The surgery for skull fracture and the last 31 day hospitalization left me seriously underweight, physically almost helpless and very weak. When my last doctor agreed that I could leave the hospital for transfer to a nursing home, my daughter arranged for me to be admitted to Miramar Nursing Home where my wife has been so long, and still is.

This arrangement made me quite happy. Equipped with a walker and a wheel chair, I was placed in the same room with my wife, who was very happy to have me with her. So began my stay at Miramar, which was planned to last about three months. At that time, I expected to be recovered enough, and with therapy, to return to living for myself again in my piney woods home ten miles away.

Living at Miramar full time, as opposed to previous short visits, enabled me to observe the operation of the whole facility. It comprises three wings, A, B and C, caring for about 180 residents. I was in C wing, which cares for about 72 patients. The entire staff, counting administrative, supervisory, RNs, LPNs, aides, kitchen help, activities, housekeeping and maintenance numbers about 125 people, so you can get an idea of its size.

Some of the residents are able-bodied, who can walk and talk and care for themselves without much help. Many are paralyzed on one side, confined to wheel chairs during the day. Many are partly or totally unable to communicate with any degree of in-unable to move their chairs more than a few inches at a time they persist in running into the chairs of others causing a lot of annoyance. Obsessions abound; some think that if they can find a phone they can call a relative to come and take them home. A few are amputees, some are almost blind.

Some of those who are able-bodied cheerfully push those who can hardly move to go to church or other activities.

Most of the wheel chair residents have to be gotten up and dressed by the aides in the morning, and similarly put to bed at night. Constant surveillance is required by the nurses and aides to prevent accidents. A fall can be quite serious.

It is not my intent to paint a gloomy picture by any means. Although you see so many people who are actually quite helpless, and have no hope of ever recovering enough to permit them to leave, an atmosphere of cheerfulness seems to prevail. Most of this atmosphere is fostered by the nursing staff, whose patience, sympathy and compassion seems to be boundless. At times it is almost unbelievable to see how impossible requests are neatly postponed or sidestepped in such a way that the patient is left satisfied, temporarily at least, and hopeful that his or her impossible demand will be met.

Sometimes physical restraints are required to keep patients from hurting themselves or others. Tender loving care seems to be the bonding agent which holds the whole thing together.

Dress is optional and casual. I was told that smoking is not permitted in patient rooms, which are mostly double occupancy with a few private rooms here and there. Occasionally roommates become

SCARLET LETTER
The major dramatization of Nathaniel Hawthorne's "The Scarlet Letter" will be rebroadcast on Mississippi ETV in four parts, at 8 p.m., Sundays, beginning June 7. "The Scarlet Letter" is Hawthorne's enduring novel of Puritan America in search of its soul. The four 60-minute episodes, shot on location in Newport, R.I., represent the first serial presentation of a classic American novel produced by public television. The production stars Meg Foster as the adulterous Hester Prynne, Kevin Conway as her vengeful husband Roger Chillingworth, and John Heard as the pious minister Arthur Dimmesdale. The drama focuses on Hester Prynne, who—condemned for a sin of passion—must wear forever the scarlet letter "A" on her breast.

State museum featuring Afro-American artistry

The bold designs and bright primary colors of Afro-American quilts will greet summer visitors to the State Historical Museum, Old Capitol Restoration, during "Something to Keep You Warm," the featured summer exhibit, June 14 - August 9.

Loaned from the Roland Freeman collection of black American quilts, the exhibit is a continuing effort of the State Historical Museum to examine black art in Mississippi and the African roots from which it developed.

The exhibit is accompanied by a full-color catalog containing photographs of the quilts, biographical sketches of the artists by Roland Freeman, essays on the art of Afro-American quilting, and a preface by museum director Patti Black.

The quilts collected by Roland Freeman are from one geographic area of the state, the old Natchez district, the region where black people were first introduced into the state and began to adapt their African designs to materials at hand.

Quilt art, as well as other traditional black folk art such as woodcarving and weaving, shows the strong stamp of African influence.

Dr. Maude Southwell Wahlman, in her essay "The Aesthetics of Afro-American Quilts" in the exhibit catalog, points out the unique elements of African textiles: "strong, bold colors, large design forms, asymmetrical designs, and multiple patterns -- all elements which stand out in strong sunlight and also allow for creative innovation within an old tradition."

In comparison with other American Quilts, she states,

Afro-American Quilts tend to emphasize large designs that carry strongly from a distance.

Titles of the quilts testify to their variety and interest: "Devil's Dream," by Phoebe Johnson; "Five Colored Girls," by Annie Dennis; "Three Pigs in a Pen," by Malissa Banks; and "Trees at Sunset," by Betty Tolbert.

There are many kinds of "strip" quilts, a major design form. One such strip quilt is created from old pants, another from fertilizer sacks. The quilts date from 1935 to 1980.

Roland Freeman, who loaned his collection for the exhibit, is currently photographer-in-residence and research associate at the Institute for the Arts and Humanities, Howard University, Washington, D.C.

Several years' research and collecting was culminated in Freeman's 1977 exhibit "Folkroots: Images of Mississippi Black Folklore," an exhibit at the State Historical Museum that later toured nationally.

Partial funding for the "Something to Keep You Warm" exhibit and catalog was made possible by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

The public is cordially invited to view the exhibit at the State Historical Museum, which is open daily.

For more information on the summer exhibit or the permanent exhibits depicting the history of the state, call the museum at 354-6222.

The state Historical Museum is a division of the Mississippi Department of Archives and History.

Summer Reading begins Tuesday

Time to get out your looking glass, hit the trail and follow the tracks to the Hancock County Public Library System.

Join in the 1981 summer reading fun beginning June 9 and continuing through July 17. This year's theme will be "Animal Tracks." Interested parents and children should come by Bay St. Louis Library, Waveland Library or Kiln Library and register.

"The Hancock County Public Library System has much fun in store for our summer reading participants," said Becky Mitchell, librarian.

"Books can open up new worlds, and we hope the children will discover this," she added.

A schedule of activities can be picked up at each library. This week the libraries are having registration and a feature film.

Summer readers will receive bookmarks, reading records and certificates in recognition of their participation.

COUNTING THE SUGAR—Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson's office became a sugar warehouse this week when 1,680 pounds of the cane sugar were confiscated in the warehouse of Bernice's Grocery in the Bayou Le Terre (Standard) Community. Hauling in the sugar Thursday were, from left, Investigator Delbert Seay, Peterson, Deputy Nathan Hoda, and Investigator Alvin Laidner. An additional 800 pounds was recovered last Saturday by authorities. Peterson said, "We are still looking for a Dixie Transport Inc. driver of a truck abandoned on private property in the Kiln." The truck originally contained 49,554 pounds of sugar, but was empty when inspected by authorities. No arrests have been made and the case is still under investigation, according to Peterson who said Friday, "We have to check with the district attorney and county attorney before we decide on any charges of persons we find in possession of the missing sugar." Peterson urges anyone knowing the whereabouts of large quantities of sugar to please call his office. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

THE AMBASSADORS—Paul Scofield and Lee Remick star in the television adaptation of Henry James' novel, "The Ambassadors," at 8 p.m., Wednesday, June 10, on the Mississippi ETV Network. Scofield enlists Remick as his ally in a delicate mission he undertakes in 19th century Paris.

BAYOU LEGEND—The lovely Spirit Anansi, portrayed by Carmen Ballarón, drifts across the water to meet her love, Dolly, played by Gary Burrows, in this scene from William Everett Smith's "A Bayou Legend," produced for the Public Broadcasting Service by the Mississippi Center for Educational Television and Opera South. The three-act opera, videotaped and audio recorded live on location in Vicksburg, Mississippi, can be seen at 8 p.m., Monday, June 15, on Miss. ETV.
